Appreciate achievements, celebrate milestones, inspire loyalty

Showing employees how much you appreciate them by recognizing their service milestones is an important part of any successful company. Unfortunately, many current solutions for service recognition are out of date or even broken completely. Awardco has improved this process to make it easy to recognize employees with automated, customizable solutions. We'll even help you with design and fulfillment of the perfect service award or certificate that fits your organization's brand and values.

With Awardco, you can pair a service award with points employees can redeem on an award of their choice. Employees can choose from millions of options fulfilled by Amazon Business, hotels provided by Priceline, or event tickets, all with zero markups. By empowering organizations like yours with millions of options and useful automation, Awardco makes service award programs more about people and less about processes.
